In the iconic song “Respect”, Aretha Franklin asks us to “find out what it means to me.” Following her lead, we invite you to join us in exploring what respect means to each of us in our supervisory roles as well as how we convey respect to our supervisees in the service of teaching and learning to do psychotherapy. In addition to our two morning speakers and afternoon panel, symposium participants will have the opportunity to interact with the topic in small group discussions.

In the symposium, we will explore and address:

- How life experience and social locations shape our ideas about respectful treatment in supervision.
- How to find the right balance in co-creating respectful supervisory relationships that allow authentic interaction.
- How to manage issues of dysregulation, shame, and disrespect in the supervisory relationship.

Learn more and register online at www.tpi-berkeley.org or call (510) 548-2250 x107.